The Mississippi river was rising at St. Louis on Saturday. The rise was from the Missouri, which had 6 feet water in the channel.

THE FANNY BULLITT FOR NEW ORLEANS.—The steamer, which has been running out for months, and has been laid up for a couple of weeks repair and repaire, leaves for New Orleans on Saturday morning. The Fanny is probably the finest boat of her class.

She has large, wide, airy cabins, and staircase, formed spirally, with every comfort.

She is besides remarkably fast. Capt. Dumban, her commander, is a very careful and experienced officer. Mr. Sills Field, her principal officer, and Mr. Loring, his assistant, are equally full of energy, with their due, able, polite, and attractive. Boats of a larger class will now be up, and travelers will have no opportunity of taking passage on a fine boat until she returns.

THE BALLOON.—Miss Emory has her balloon completed and will commence inflating it this evening. It is the largest class, and it will require about twenty-four hours to inflate it.

The steamer S. Lawrence has arrived with four or five gentlemen of this city who will accompany Miss E. There will be course demands on the ground to-morrow evening to see Miss Emory and party.

It will be seen by reference to our columns that Mr. A. G. Moon has associated with himself Mr. Jas. Buchanan in the seed and agricultural business.

THE AMERICANS OF THE EIGHTH WARD, in their exertions in surpassing all the other wards in the grand American procession, have furnished themselves with a fine pair of horses which they intend to display upon the occasion.

THE Highflyer leaves for St. Louis to-day. She is a capital boat.

The steamer Adams arrived at Portland at 5 o'clock yesterday from St. Louis, with 450 passengers from port to port. The Adams is a clipper. Misses Shultz and Longest, her clerks, favored us with the latest news.

The remains of the deceased were taken back to the church where they were interred.
